English Conquests.

"The sun never sets on the Queen's Dominions" is the proud boast of Englishmen as Lady or Honorable. Daughters of peers and truly it seems to furnish a key to the rank (next after the wives of their toreign policy of Great Britain.

The unbriddled love of conquest has for years been a ruling passion, and all the advantages of peace have been repeatedly her sisters marrying commoners retains sacrificed in its gratification. For this purhas been shed in every clime.

Notes and Observations

I intend giving in this communication some further facts concerning the constitution of the British aristocracy. Those who know all about it, or care nothing about it, or think they can find out all they wish to PHOTOGRAPHER, know in some convenient book at some convenient time need read no further, but pass on to the next colomn. I merely know that my own ideas on the subject were very hazv and the information interesting. While it is fresh in mind I will give some of it to the readers of the CITIZEN, to save them the trouble of looking it up for themselves. There was nothing in my last article nor now in this for those people who know everything. The following table shows the relative rank which the various titles give to their possessors: The Sovereign. The Prince of Wales.

The Queen's younger sons. The Queen's grandsons.

The Archbishop of Dublin

The Archbishop of Canterbury. The Lord High Chancellor. The Archbishop of York. The Archbishop of Armagh.

The Lord President of the Privy Council.

The Lord Privy Seal. The Lord Great Chamberlain.

Dukes' eldest sons.

The Earl Marshal. These all rank above all Peers of their own degree. Dukes. Marquises.

Marquises eldest sons. Dukes' younger sons. Viscounts. Karls eldest sons. Marquises' younger sous. Bishops. Secretaries of State (if Barons).

Speaker of House of Commons. Treasurer of Her Majesty's Household. Master of Horse. Vice-Chamberlain of Her Majesty's Household Secretaries of State (under Barons). Viscounts' eldest sons.

Comptroller of Her Majesty's Household. Earls' younger sons. Barons' eldest sons. Knights of the Garter. Privy Councilors. Chancellor of the Exchequer. Chancellor of the Duchy of Languster. Lord Chief-Justice of the Queen's Bench. Master of the Roller.

Lords Justices of Appeals. Bords of Appeal. Judges. Viscounts' younger sons. Barons' younger sous. Knights. Judges of County Courts. Companions of various Orders, as Bath, etc. Eldest sons of younger sons of Peers.

NING OF EACH WEEK, IF THEY ARE TO APPEAR Baronets' eldest sons. Eldest sons of Knights. Younger sons of younger sons of Peers. Baronets' younger sons. Younger sons of Knights.

Women take the same rank as their husbands or brothers, but the daughter of a peer marrying a commoner retains her title elder brothers, and before their younger brothers' wives. The daughter of a duke marrying a baron degrades to baroness, while Teacher of Piano and Organ their old rank and take precedence of the pose men and money have been poured out baroness. Merely official rank on the part like water, and the blood of British soldiers of the susband does not give any similar precedence on the part of the wife. There are at present in England 6 princes of the blood, 2 archbishops, 21 dukes, 19 marquises, 117 earls, 27 viscounts, 24 bishops, 235 barons, 6 peeresses in their own right. In Scotland there are 8 dukes there are 2 dukes, 11 marquises, 64 earls, At the presentating ar Errich, and the 32roners, English, Scotch and Irish.
